

Brittany M. Dengler

December 12, 1990 - July 5, 2023

Brittany has been a sunshine to a cloudy day, a smile to sadness. Brittany can be a tremor to an earthquake or the rain to a storm. But most of ALL, Brittany has been the joy and stress to my life. One thing that we ALL know though about Brittany is though with all of that about her is she has a HUGE heart and would do anything to make you happy and bring joy. She was giving and loved doing things as a family, she loved finding activities for us all to do.. Going to the movies, craft fairs or swimming are just a few things she enjoyed. She had a fun sense of humor, we Never let her live down those “Lemon Bars” fiasco with the day baking at Grandma’s house. We will never forget the time when a cat scratched at her window late at night and scared Brittany so badly she went running and stumping through the house like a tornado almost stepping on RaeAnn, shortly after we all watched a horror movie before going to bed. Or the “Don’t look at me” when she was little and she was caught dancing in front of the tv to the Barney show.. There was soooo many memories of cute antidotes that always made us laugh and Brittany was always coming up with something to keep us on our toes... She loved Savanna without hesitation and would be proud of all things she tried or done. As she will be proud of Savanna for all she achieves for her future too. I know she was thankful of the support Brandan gave her and how he would listen to her whenever she needed him, he would pick her up little things as a surprise. She always looked up to RaeAnn, and always cared about doing things with her. I remember all the times Brittany and I would go places, have carpet picnics, long talks or watch a movie together.. She was always my Partner in Crime, we did so many things together. I need to apologize to her for the times that I was not there for her for support or to listen, she knows I do care. I know she will forgive me because she has a forgiven heart. Her heart was huge, bigger than life, she was full of happiness and love. She will be truly missed and my heart will NEVER be the same with the loss of her beautiful person she was and how she brought so much to my life.. I will love You Brittany forever and always! Love, Mom
