“ Mooney, you were more than just my mother-in-law, you were my friend and at times more family than those I was born to. I will treasure my memories of you. I am sorry you are gone but glad you are with your husband and sister. I am sure you are bringing joy to all those with you now. You will be greatly missed.

“ My Mooie...even though I was there shortly after you passed on, and I've even told people multiple times that you've passed, somehow it still doesn't seem real. I know that you're in Heaven and no longer suffering as you did for so long, but it's still hard to believe that you're no longer here. I keep reliving memories and thinking that all I have to do is call to ask you if you recall something...then I realize that I can't anymore. I guess it hasn't fully hit me yet; or maybe it has; but maybe I'm dealing with it in a different way than expected. I love you, Mooie, and always will; and I'll always miss you.

“ Mooley, I don't know what to say, the reality of your passing hasn't yet fully hit me, and I am kind of numb. All I know is there is a hole in my heart that you once filled, and your smile and cheerfulness will be missed. We have all the memories, and the "Mooleyisms" to keep us going, but it's not the same as the kisses and hugs you provided, or the comfort and love you provided when we were hurting, or just needed that extra boost. You were the best mother I could have asked for and more. Until we meet again on the other side.
