“ I worked for Glenn in the 80s at Konhaus. At 16 years old I was a bagger. He pulled me from the ranks and took me under his wing. He was tough but fair. As a young know it all I thought he was crazy. Cracking the whip, smoking his cigars, and black coffee. You had better pull your weight working for this guy. He always had the company's interest in mind. Never wasting their time, materials, or supplies. Outside of my own family raising me to do right and work hard Glenn's work DNA stuck to me. Thank you for the skill of digging in and getting it done. I've used it the last 36 years. Rest in peace.
