

Jeffrey S. Hocker

July 16, 2017

Jeffrey Shawn Hocker lost his battle with addiction on July 16th at his home. His family was his heart, and he precedes his loving parents Jeffrey and Shawn in death. In addition, Jeffrey also leaves behind his siblings Dustin Hocker, Jamie Hocker (Carr), and Tegan Hocker (Boehmer) as well as several nieces and nephews.

Not afraid of hard work and pushing himself to his own limits, Jeffrey had a passion for weightlifting and body building. He secretly enjoyed listening to Adele while pumping iron. Jeffrey also loved to laugh and would wear his heart on his sleeve. He found peace meeting with friends at Christian Life Assembly Church in Camp Hill.

Jeffrey's struggle spanned approximately a decade, but he never lost his hope for finding his focus. While his family is devastated with the ending of his story, who he was will never be lost to those whom he was closest.

A private service will be held for immediate family, and in lieu of flowers the family requests that donations be made in his name at shatterproof.org, an organization that works to make sure that Jeffrey's story is not one that is repeated.
