“ Juan and i didnt know each other very long and we had our differences but he was a very hard worki g man everyday he went out and worked for mrs. Clouse and at night him and i would go scrappin and or junkin whichever u prefer . Regretting the last day i had with him i can say i forgive the events and remember his beautiful smile n beautiful curly hair he had. Thru the troubles he faced with addiction as well as myself and my haunting past and not knowing him very well we sure did hit it off and i can forgive the bad times and remember the good times . I was shocked to hear of his passing and very unsure it was true or not until i seen this. He n i hit it off pretty good and he vowed he i would be his last and im sorry i wasnt there for him in this time of need. no matter what we went thru we always tried to overcome forgive and forget and atart new everyday knowing we were battling our demons from our past and addiction n mental health. My sincere condolences to his family and children whom he spoke of fondly and on a daily. xoxo rest easy fly high my angel Thanks for the knowledge you instilled in my stubborn ass during our trips working teaching me what u seen i didnt know and wanted to learn amd listening and learning and proud that i knew so much for a girl my age as u said often. I will add a picture very soon of him n i working outside n his big beautiful smile he had in the beginning of the day periodically thru the day and at the end of the day he gained a forgiving and forgive him angelic smile back on his face. If you can see me or hear these words please know u will always hold a place in my confused heart and we will get back to scrappin collecting and hoarding once again wen i c u on the flip side... Rest easy Fly high u can now rest n have no more troublesome worries that you had .... Te Amo Mi Amor.... u n i can smile about your time here on earth with no worries .... Forgive my wrg doings n smile on our love we had at one time as ur n Forgiven n ill definitely remember n only embrace the great the good the beautiful n the hard taught ethics u helped me with. xoxo
