“ I'm sorry about your mom, sister, aunt, and grandma. I bet she loved that word. Lol

One time, I went to an Indian pow-wow with your parents over on City Island. Your mom and Dad needed to get outside for a while. It was a beautiful day. We got a place in the shade and we watched the dancing. Then Aunt Mary and I walked around looking at what the vendors were selling. We were looking at a ring tray, and we both went to grab the same ring. I said age before beauty jokingly. I said, "Go ahead and try it on. Wow, it didn't fit her, but it fit me. She was disappointed, but she said at least it fit one of us. We had a memorable day. That's what you hold on to your memories and your love for them.
